The Management Company undertakes to make the transfer within 5 working days but cannot determine when the funds will reach the Investor's account and it is not considered as being late to pay.
- 14.25. The Management Company can suspend the redemption and settlement of accounts in accordance with the procedures set out in paragraph 15 of the Prospectus, if the Fund does not have enough liquid assets to redeem Fund units, as well as when the Fund does not have the possibility to borrow funds with the purpose of redeeming Fund units or in case of other important reasons (adverse conditions in the financial markets, etc.). In case of such circumstances, the Participant will be informed personally by means indicated in the Investment Agreement.
- 14.26. If the Fund does not settle with the Participant within the term indicated due to the fault of the Management Company, the Management Company must pay interest determined in the Civil Code of the Republic of Lithuania for the delayed period upon a written request of the Investor.
- 14.27. At the moment of submitting the Redemption Application the Participant loses all rights granted by the redeemed Fund units, except for the right to receive funds for the redeemed Fund units. At the moment of accepting the Redemption Application the Management Company acquires an obligation to settle the account with the Participant for the redeemed Fund units. At the moment of settling the account for the redeemed Fund units and making specific records in the personal investment units account of the Participant he/she is not considered as a participant of the fund anymore.
- 14.28. The Participant, whose Fund units are kept (accounted for) in an account opened with a financial instruments account agent other than the one specified in the Prospectus, must transfer the Fund units to the personal account opened with the financial instruments account agent appointed by the Management Company before submitting a Redemption Application by way of a tax-free transfer. This provision of the Rules shall apply only in respect of the investment units already acquired and does not apply to the units of the Fund that Investors will acquire in the future.

15. Conditions and procedures for the suspending the redemption of investment units

- 15.1. During the operation of the Fund, the investment units shall be redeemed in accordance with the procedure set out in the Documents.

Sale price

- 16.1. At the beginning of Fund's operations, i.e. before the estimation of the first NAV, the Fund unit is priced at EUR 100. In the following periods Fund units are sold for a price, dependent on the Fund's NAV at the last day of the calendar month.
- 16.2. The sale price of the investment units may be increased by a distribution fee.

Redemption price

- 16.3. The redemption price of the Fund's investment unit is equal to the value of the Fund's unit as per the NAV on the last calendar day of the last month of the relevant calendar quarter. The investment units shall be redeemable at no additional cost.

- 16.4. The Month X NAV and value of the investment unit shall be published / provided to the Participants no later than the 10th (tenth) business day of the following month (inclusive). The Month X NAV and value of the investment unit may be published later than the time specified in this paragraph in cases where, due to circumstances beyond the Management Company's control, it is not possible to publish the Month X NAV and value of the investment unit by the time specified, but in any event the Month X NAV and value of the investment unit shall be published no later than the 20th (twentieth) business day of the following month.
- 16.5. Information shall be provided directly to the Investors by electronic (e-mail or in other agreed form) or other means agreed with the Investor.

17. Procedure for asset valuation and investment unit value estimation

- 17.1. The Fund's NAV shall be determined at least once a month, on the last day of each calendar month. In all cases, it must be determined at the end of the financial year.
- 17.2. The value of the Fund's units shall be determined by dividing the NAV by the total number of units in circulation in the Fund. The value of the Fund's investment unit (its parts) shall be determined to four decimal places and rounded according to mathematical rounding rules.
- 17.3. The difference between the values of the Fund's assets and liabilities represents the value of net assets.
- 17.4. The Fund's assets and liabilities shall be measured at fair value unless they cannot be measured reliably. The value of assets and liabilities shall be determined in accordance with Business Accounting Standards and the Description of Procedures for Calculation of the Net Asset Value approved by the Management Company.
- 17.5. Liabilities shall be calculated in accordance with the requirements of the Lithuanian Business Accounting Standards (hereinafter – the BAS).
- 17.6. The calculation of assets and liabilities shall be based on their fair value, which shall reflect the amount of the NAV at which it is most likely that the assets will be sold.
- 17.7. The value of assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currencies shall be determined in accordance with the Republic of Lithuania Law on Accounting.
- 17.8. The currency in which the Fund's NAV is calculated is the EUR.
- 17.9. Term deposits with banks shall be valued at amortised cost.
- 17.10. Cash and cash equivalents at credit institutions shall be measured at nominal value.

17.11. Non-equity securities and money market instruments not traded on regulated markets shall be valued as follows:

17.11.1.

$$K = \sum_{i=1}^n \frac{S_i}{1 + \frac{Y}{100} \times \frac{d_i}{360}}$$

wherein:

K – the total value of the instrument (calculated at nominal value per 100 currency units);

S_i – the i -st cash flow of the instrument's nominal value (coupon payment or amount payable at redemption) per 100 currency units;

Y – the instrument's profitability (in percent) estimated according to market data;

n – the number of coupon payments remaining until the instrument's maturity date (if the instrument has no coupon payments, the notional number of coupon payments);

$d/360$ – the fraction of a year from the date of calculation of the NAV to the redemption date (coupon payment date) using the European 30/360 day calculation convention in Microsoft Excel software;

- 17.11.2. in other cases, where this results in a more accurate assessment than under paragraph 17.11.1, those instruments shall be valued at their expected selling price determined using the discounted cash flow method (instrument value = discounted value of flows over n years + (plus) discounted perpetual value - (minus) discounted net financial debt);
- 17.11.3. transactions in non-equity securities are accounted for using the trade-date method in accordance with IAS 39, i.e. at the trade date, the buyer records a financial asset receivable and a liability to pay for it in its books.

17.12. Units (shares) of collective investment undertakings (CIU):

- 17.12.1. which are not traded on a regulated market, shall be valued at their last redemption price;
- 17.12.2. which are traded on a regulated market, shall be valued at the closing price of the regulated market.

17.13. Money market instruments with a maturity or remaining maturity of 397 days or less, or with yields that are regularly adjusted to money market conditions at least once every 397 days, or those with risks, including credit and interest rate risks, that are very similar to those of financial instruments with maturities and yields consistent with the above shall be measured using the amortised cost method.

17.14. Otherwise, if, in the opinion of the Management Company, this results in a more accurate valuation of these instruments than under paragraphs 17.11-17.13 of the Prospectus, they shall be valued in accordance with the valuation method selected (as specified in the procedures for calculating the NAV) that is generally accepted and used in the financial market.

18. Places where one can familiarise oneself with the history of the activities of the collective investment undertaking

- 18.1. The history of the Fund's activities is available in the periodic activity reports of the Fund, which will be provided to Investors. The Investors may obtain more detailed and additional information from the Management Company and / or Distributor.

IV. INFORMATION ON THE TYPES OF RISKS AND THEIR MANAGEMENT

19. Risk factors associated with the acquisition and investment of the Units.

Investments in the Fund's investment units are subject to long-term and higher than average risk. Information provided in this section of the Prospectus is related to risk factors that, in the opinion of the Management Company, may affect the Fund's performance. There may be additional risk factors that are not listed in this section due to the fact that the Management Company is not aware of them or considers them insignificant at the time of the preparation of this Prospectus. The decision to invest in the Fund's investment units should not be made solely on the basis of the following risk factors. Before making investment decisions, the Investors should be aware that they may get back less than the amount they invested.

- 19.1. Overall and volatility risk. The value of the Fund's investments may rise or fall, which may cause large fluctuations in the value of the Fund's investment units during the term of the Fund's activity. The value of the Fund's investments may increase or decrease significantly within a sufficiently short period of time and, as a result, the Fund's NAV may increase or decrease significantly within a sufficiently short period of time. A significant increase or decrease in the Fund's NAV over a sufficiently short period of time may lead to sudden significant fluctuations (increases or decreases) in the value of the Fund's investment units. The historical performance of the Fund does not guarantee the same results in the future.
- 19.2. Market risk. There is a risk that a deterioration in global, regional, or country conditions (e.g. macroeconomic changes, political, geopolitical, legal risks, or the actions of investors in a particular region) could reduce the value of the assets purchased by the Fund or the income they generate, which could reduce the value of the Fund's investments.
- 19.3. Exemption from diversification requirements and concentration risk. The Fund's investment portfolio is not subject to diversification requirements as the Fund is intended for informed investors only. Thus, there is a risk that a single unsuccessful investment could have a material impact on the Fund's NAV and, consequently, on its performance. The investment strategy of the Fund's assets is based on concentrated investments, which means that investment risk is not broadly dispersed, with risks of concentration by asset class, sector or region. In addition to the above concentration, the market may also experience a situation where the concentration of similar funds in certain asset classes can be very high, which creates a risk that all similar funds will try to liquidate their positions at the same time, thus adversely affecting the liquidation prices of their investments.

- 19.4. Liquidity risk. Investing in investment instruments with limited liquidity (in particular OTC investments) carries the risk of taking longer than expected to realise, which may result in a temporary shortage of cash to redeem the Fund's investment units in a timely manner. This risk is minimised by investing part of the funds in money market instruments or other highly liquid investment instruments.
- 19.5. Credit risk. As the majority of the Fund's assets comprise debt securities of the Target Companies, the Fund is exposed to credit risk – the potential default of a counterparty, i.e. the inability or unwillingness to redeem debt securities. At least one of the following investment protection tools shall be used to manage credit risk:
- Target Company's equity requirement;
 - Pledging assets or shares in the Target Company;
 - Signing of uncontested bills of exchange;
 - Periodic reporting by the Target Company to the Management Company;
 - Any other risk management measure approved by the Management Company's decision that is appropriate for the specific Target Company.
- 19.6. Interest rate risk. There is a risk that if inflation rises, central banks will raise interest rates and the servicing of loans related to the Fund's investments will become more expensive, which may reduce the value of the Fund's investments. Changes in interest rates can also directly affect the value of securities in the Fund's portfolio. Interest rate risk can be mitigated by acquiring shorter-term debt securities.
- 19.7. Financing and leverage risks. There is a risk that a deterioration in the global, regional or national economy may make it difficult/expensive for the Fund to obtain new financing for acquisitions or project development, or to refinance old financings, and that the value of the Fund's investments may decline. The risk of using leverage also relates to the increased impact on the Fund's performance of the depreciation of financial instruments purchased with borrowed funds. The higher the leverage used, the higher both the potential investment return and the investment risk.
- 19.8. Exchange rate risk. This is the risk of losses due to unfavourable changes in foreign exchange rates. Investors can hedge their exposure to currency risk by purchasing derivatives.
- 19.9. Inflation risk. If inflation accelerates, the value of the Fund's units may decrease accordingly, and gains in the value of the Fund's assets may not compensate for the decrease in the real value of the Fund's assets due to inflation.
- 19.10. Geopolitical risk. There is a risk that the Company operations may be affected by geopolitical changes (e.g., state conflicts, internal conflicts of neighbouring countries, uprisings or wars), and as a result the value of the Company's investments may decrease or the Company's investments may not be realised at the desired time. The routine monitoring of the geopolitical situation by the Management Company should contribute to the management of this risk.
- 19.11. Political and legal risks. Political instability in a country may lead to legal, tax, fiscal and regulatory changes, such as nationalisation, confiscation, restrictions on the freedom of capital movements and other political decisions that would adversely affect the value of the Fund's investment units. Changes in legislation and the tax environment may affect the value of the Fund's investment units or the amount of income an Investor receives from an investment. To mitigate this risk, the Fund tries to avoid investing in financial instruments in regions with higher political and legal risk.
- 19.12. Operational risk. The success of the Fund's investments depends to a large extent on the investment decisions made by the people in charge of the Management Company and on the experience and skills of those people. There is no guarantee that the Management Company's employees will manage the Fund throughout the term of its operation. Operational risk is mitigated by selecting experienced and qualified Fund managers, investment managers, analysts, including the Depository.
- 19.13. Risk of transaction, counterparty and settlement risk. There is a risk that a counterparty buying or selling an asset will default on its obligations, such as defaulting on settlement – failure to make a payment, or fail to transfer assets acquired to the Fund, or the transaction may not be settled in general, resulting in significant costs for the Fund, which would significantly and adversely affect its overall performance of the Fund.
- 19.14. Risk of conflict of interest. There is a risk that there will be situations where the interests of the Management Company (or its affiliates) and the Fund may diverge or where the interests of individual Investors may diverge (e.g. with respect to the acquisition of investment properties, the timing of the sale of investment properties held by the Fund), i.e. conflicts of interest may arise. In order to mitigate this risk, the Fund only enters into arm's length service contracts with companies affiliated to the Management Company. In addition, the Management Company seeks to mitigate these risks by complying with approved internal procedures and applicable legal requirements, thereby ensuring transparency in investment and investment supervision.
- 19.15. Tax risk. There is a risk that changes in economic conditions and the political situation in the countries in which the Fund invests could result in new taxes on the Fund and the Fund's investment objects and/or an increase in the level of existing taxes, which could result in a decrease in the return on the Fund's investments.

- 19.16. Risks associated with forward-looking statements. The forward-looking statements made by the Management Company and its employees have not been analysed, verified or otherwise validated. Forward-looking statements are based on the Management Company's and its employees' assessment, opinion, expectations and forecasts of future events and financial trends that may affect the Fund's performance. Forward-looking statements include information about the Fund's likely or anticipated performance, investment strategy, contractual relationships, borrowing plans, investment conditions, the impact of future regulation and other information. The Management Company and its employees cannot ensure that forward-looking statements will fairly and completely reflect future events and circumstances. The Management Company and its employees do not represent or warrant that the forward-looking statements are accurate or that the Fund will be profitable. The Management Company and its employees undertake no obligation to revise or amend any forward-looking statements, except to the extent required by applicable national law.
- 19.17. Assets valuation risk. The valuation of the assets acquired by the Fund shall be carried out in accordance with the basic rules set out in the Rules. The valuation of an individual Fund's holdings is merely a determination of the value of the assets and does not automatically imply the exact realisation price of the Fund's holdings, which depends on a number of circumstances, such as economic and other conditions beyond the control of the Management Company and its employees. Thus, the realisation price of the assets held by the Fund may be higher or lower than the assessed value of the assets acquired by the Fund.
- 19.18. New investment risk. As part of the Fund's investment strategy, investments shall be made after the conclusion of the Investment Agreement and Investors may not be able to evaluate the terms and conditions relating to the Fund's future investments. The Investors may need to rely on the decisions of the Management Company; however, the Management Company does not guarantee or warrant that the Fund's investments will be successful and that the Fund's investment objectives will be achieved.
- 19.19. Risks related to the Fund's potential liability. There is a risk that the Fund's operations and the Fund's overall performance may be adversely affected by claims and actions for undisclosed or uncontracted obligations and/or breaches related to the investment objects acquired by the Fund, which may result in the Fund's liability for such obligations and/or breaches, and as a result of which the value of the Fund's investments may decrease significantly. In order to mitigate this risk, the Fund shall, where possible and justified, conduct due diligence on the assets before acquiring assets, and shall seek to include in the agreements terms that adequately protect the Fund from such obligations and/or breaches or take any other action, however, the Management Company does not guarantee or warrant that the risk mitigation measures will be effective and will allow it to completely avoid the liability of the Fund.
- A claim was brought against the Fund by the insolvency administrator of the former Target Company and by a creditor of the Target Company seeking to annul the transfer of EUR 1,408,000 made by the Target Company to the Fund on 3 May 2021. On 6 May 2024, the Vilnius Regional Court, after hearing civil case at first instance, ruled against the Fund by awarding payment by the Fund in the amount of EUR 1,408,000, as well as procedural interest of 6 % per annum on the amount awarded, litigation expenses in the amount of EUR 6,400 and postage expenses of EUR 25.56. The Management Company, having assessed the arguments put forward by the court, appealed against the court's decision to a court of higher instance, but on 31 October 2024 Court of Appeal of Lithuania, which heard the civil case No e2A-436-464/2024, upheld the decision of the first instance court. The Management Company, taking into account the Judgement of the court of higher instance and the provisions of the 39th Financial Reporting Standard of the Republic of Lithuania applicable to the Fund and the Fund's Rules, has left provisions for the full amount of the award – EUR 1,408,000 – and for the litigation costs – EUR 6,425.56 – made in May 2024 and added EUR 1,920.00 litigation expenses awarded by Court of Appeal of Lithuania from the Fund when calculating the Fund's NAV for October 2024. The Management Company, taking into account the opinion of the lawyers representing the Fund, and after assessing the arguments put forward by the court, decided to appeal the decision of Court of Appeal of Lithuania to the Supreme Court of Lithuania and defend the rights and interests of the Fund's participants.
- 19.20. Competition risk. The Fund will compete with other investors, including, but not limited to, other investment funds, when investing in investment objects. Thus, there is a risk that competition with other investors will require the Fund to enter into transactions on less favourable terms than would otherwise be the case, which could reduce both the Fund's return on investment.
- 19.21. Risk of non-redemption of the Fund units. There is a risk that redemptions of the Fund's investment units may be suspended or the units may not be redeemed at all due to the Fund's inability to meet its obligations (the Fund's insolvency).
- 19.22. Sustainability risk. There may be an environmental, social or governance event or situation that, if it were to occur, could have an actual or potential material adverse effect on the value of the investment. Sustainability risk can also manifest itself in other types of risk (including, but not limited to, market, liquidity, credit, etc.). The impact of sustainability risks may vary depending on the investment, e.g. investments in high carbon emitting sectors may be more exposed to climate change risks. All or a combination of these factors may have an impact on the Fund's investments and a significant effect on the value of the Fund's units. The assessment of sustainability risk depends on the class of business sector. Different sectors require different data and tools to carry out due diligence and to assess the relevance and impact of sustainability risks. To mitigate this risk, the Management Company also assesses the sustainability factors relevant to the specific investment under analysis and the associated sustainability risks.

- 19.23. Other risk factors. There may be other risk factors beyond the control of the Fund and the Management Company (other than those discussed above) which may adversely affect both the market as a whole and the value of the individual investments comprising the Fund's assets, which may result in a decrease in the value of the Fund's investment units.
- 19.24. Regarding further information on types of risks. Further information on risks and their management should be sought from the Management Company.
